

Constitution of the Republic of Kazakhstan

Unofficial translation

Constitution adopted on August 30, 1995 at the republican referendum.

Unofficial translation

*We, the people of Kazakhstan, united by a common historical fate, creating a state on the indigenous Kazakh land, considering ourselves a peace-loving and civil society,
committed to the ideals of freedom, equality and Concord,
wishing to take a worthy place in the world community,
realizing our high responsibility
before the present and future generations, proceeding from our sovereign right,
adopt this Constitution.*

Article 47

1. The President of the Republic of Kazakhstan may be early dismissed from office in case of persistent inability to perform his duties due to illness. In this case, the Parliament forms a commission consisting of an equal number of deputies from each Chamber and specialists in the relevant fields of medicine. The decision on early release is made at a joint meeting of the Chambers of Parliament by a majority of at least three-quarters of the total number of deputies of each of the Chambers on the basis of the conclusion of the commission and the conclusion of the Constitutional Court on compliance with the established constitutional procedures.

2. The President of the Republic is liable for acts committed in the performance of his duties only in the event of high treason and may be removed from office by Parliament for this. The decision to bring charges and investigate them may be taken by a majority of the total number of deputies of the Mazhilis on the initiative of at least one third of its deputies. The investigation of the accusation is organized by the Senate, and its results, by a majority vote of the total number of deputies of the Senate, are submitted for consideration by a joint session of the Chambers of Parliament. The final decision on this issue is made at a joint meeting of the Chambers of Parliament by a majority of at least three-quarters of the total number of votes of deputies of each of the Chambers, subject to the presence of the conclusion of the Supreme Court on the validity of the accusation and the conclusion of the Constitutional Court on compliance with the established constitutional procedures. Failure to make a final decision within two months from the date of the accusation entails the recognition of the accusation against the President of the Republic as dismissed. The rejection of the accusation of the President of the Republic of committing high treason at any stage entails the early termination of the powers of the deputies of the Mazhilis who initiated the consideration of this issue.

3. The issue of discharge of the President of the Republic from office may not be commenced within the period of consideration by him of the issue of early termination of the powers of Parliament of the Republic or the Mazhilis of Parliament.

Footnote: Article 47 as amended by the Law of the Republic of Kazakhstan No. 254-III dated May 21, 2007 (shall be applied from the date of its official publication); dated 08.06.2022 (effective from 01.01.2023).

Article 48

1. In case of early discharge or impeachment of the President of the Republic of Kazakhstan from office as well as in the case of his death, the powers of the President of the Republic shall be transmitted for the remaining period to the Chairperson of the Senate of Parliament; if the Chairperson of the Senate is unable to assume the powers of the President, they shall pass to the Chairperson of the Mazhilis of Parliament; if the Chairperson of the Mazhilis is unable to assume the powers of the President, they shall pass to the Prime Minister of the Republic. A person who has assumed the powers of the President of the Republic, shall resign himself from the powers of the Chairperson of the Senate, the Chairperson of the Mazhilis and the Prime Minister. In this case, the filling of vacant public positions shall be carried out in the manner prescribed by the Constitution.

2. A person who has assumed the authority of the President of the Republic of Kazakhstan, on the grounds and in the manner provided by paragraph 1 of this article, shall not have the right to initiate changes and additions to the Constitution of the Republic of Kazakhstan.

Section IV

Parliament

Article 49

1. The Parliament of the Republic of Kazakhstan is the highest representative body of the Republic exercising legislative power.

2. Parliament's powers shall begin from the opening of its first session and terminate with the first session of the Parliament of a new convocation.

3. The powers of Parliament may be terminated early in cases and as stipulated by the Constitution.

4. Constitutional Law shall determine the organization and activity of Parliament as well as the legal status of its deputies.

Footnote. See the resolution of the Constitutional Council of the Republic of Kazakhstan No.13/2 dated July 14, 1999.

Footnote. Article 49 as amended by the Law of the Republic of Kazakhstan dated No. 284 -I dated October 7, 1998; No. 51-VI dated March 10, 2017 (shall be applied from the date of its first official publication).

Article 50

1. The Parliament shall consist of two Chambers: the Senate and the Mazhilis, which act on a permanent basis.

2. In the manner prescribed by the constitutional law, the Senate is formed by the deputies for two persons out of each region, city of republican significance and the capital of the Republic of Kazakhstan. Ten deputies of the Senate are appointed by the President of the Republic, five of them - at the recommendation of the Assembly of the People of Kazakhstan.

3. The Mazhilis consists of ninety-eight deputies elected in the manner prescribed by the constitutional law under a mixed electoral system: according to the system of proportional representation in the territory of a single nationwide constituency, as well as in single-mandate territorial constituencies.

4. A deputy of Parliament may not be a member of both Chambers at the same time.

5. The term of powers of the Senate's deputies shall be six years, and the term of the deputies of the Mazhilis shall be five years.

Footnote. See the resolutions of the Constitutional Council of the Republic of Kazakhstan No.1/2 dated March 15, 1999; No.24/2 dated November 29, 1999; No.1 dated February 11, 2003; No.1 dated February 12, 2004.

Footnote. Article 50 as amended by the Law of the Republic of Kazakhstan dated No. 284 -I dated October 7, 1998; No. 254-III dated May 21, 2007 (shall be applied from the date of its official publication); dated 08.06.2022 (shall be enforced from 08.06.2022).

Article 51

1. Election of deputies of the Mazhilis is carried out on the basis of universal, equal and direct suffrage by secret ballot. The next elections of deputies of the Mazhilis are held no later than two months before the end of the term of office of the current convocation of the Parliament.

2. The election of deputies of the Senate shall be carried out on the basis of indirect suffrage by secret ballot. Half of the elected deputies of the Senate shall be re-elected every three years. In this case, their regular elections shall be held no later than two months before the expiry of their term of office.

3. Extraordinary elections of the deputies of Parliament or the Mazhilis of Parliament shall be held within two months from the day of early termination of the powers of Parliament or the Mazhilis of Parliament respectively.

4. A deputy of Parliament may be a person who is a citizen of the Republic of Kazakhstan and who has been a permanent resident for the last ten years on its territory. A deputy of the Senate may be a person who has reached thirty years of age, has a higher education and length of service of not less than five years, and has been a permanent resident for not less than three years on the territory of the respective region, city of republic significance or the capital of the Republic. A deputy of the Mazhilis may be a person who has reached twenty-five years of age.

5. Constitutional Law shall regulate elections of the deputies of the Parliament of the Republic.

6. A deputy of Parliament shall take an oath before the people of Kazakhstan.

Footnote. See the resolutions of the Constitutional Council of the Republic of Kazakhstan No. 5/2 dated March 18, 1999; No. 24/2 dated November 29, 1999; No. 1 dated February 11, 2003.

Footnote. Article 51 as amended by the Law of the Republic of Kazakhstan No. 284-I dated October 7, 1998; No. 254-III dated May 21, 2007 (shall be applied from the date of its official publication); dated 08.06.2022 (shall be enforced from 08.06.2022).

Article 52

2. Deputies of Parliament are obliged to take part in its work. Voting in Parliament shall be carried out by the deputy only in person. The absence of a deputy without a clear reason at meetings of the Chambers and their bodies more than three times, as well as the transfer of the right to vote, entails the application to the deputy of statutory measures of punishment.

3. A deputy of Parliament shall not have the right to be a deputy of another representative body, occupy other paid positions, except teaching, research, and creative activities, be engaged in entrepreneurial activity, be a member of a governing body or a supervisory board of a commercial organization. Violation of this rule shall entail the termination of a deputy's powers.

4. A deputy of Parliament during the term of his office may not be arrested, subject to detention, measures of administrative punishment imposed judicially, charged with criminal liability without the consent of a respective Chamber except for cases of being detained at the scene of a crime or the commission of serious crimes.

5. The powers of a deputy of the Parliament shall be terminated in cases of resignation, death, being recognized as incapable, dead or untraceable by a valid judgment of the court, and in other cases stipulated by the Constitution and the Constitutional Law.

A deputy of the Parliament shall be deprived of his mandate in cases of:

- 1) his departure for permanent residence beyond the Republic of Kazakhstan;
- 2) the entry into force against him of a conviction rendered by a court ;
- 3) loss of citizenship of the Republic of Kazakhstan.

A deputy of the Mazhilis of the Parliament loses his mandate in case of:

1) withdrawal or expulsion of a deputy from the political party from which, in accordance with the constitutional law, he was elected on the basis of a party list;

2) termination of the activities of a political party from which, in accordance with the constitutional law, a deputy was elected on the basis of a party list;

3) recall by voters, in the manner determined by the constitutional law, of a deputy elected in a single-mandate territorial constituency.

The powers of appointed deputies of the Senate of Parliament may be terminated early by the decision of the President of the Republic.

The powers of the deputies of Parliament and the Mazhilis of Parliament shall be terminated early in cases of dissolution of Parliament and the Mazhilis of Parliament respectively.

6. Preparation of issues concerning the application of penalty measures to the deputies, their compliance with the requirements of item 3 of this article, rules of deputy ethics, as well as termination of the deputies' powers and deprivation of their powers and deputy inviolability, shall be imposed by the Central Election Commission of the Republic of Kazakhstan.

- 10) the administrative and territorial structure of the Republic;
- 11) national defence and security.

All other issues are covered by local by-laws.

In case of introduction of draft laws to the Parliament provided for by part two of paragraph 2 of this article, the Government of the Republic shall have the right to adopt, under its own responsibility the temporary regulatory legal acts having the force of law on the issues specified in part one of this paragraph, which are valid until the entry into force of laws adopted by the Parliament or until the Parliament does not adopt the laws.

4. A law adopted by a majority vote of the total number of deputies of the Mazhilis shall be submitted to the Senate, where it is considered for no more than sixty days.

The Majilis as a whole shall have the right to reject the draft law by a majority vote of the total number of deputies. The rejected draft law shall be considered not adopted and returned to the initiator.

A law approved by a majority vote of the total number of deputies of the Senate shall be submitted to the President for signing within ten days. If the Senate does not approve the law as a whole or its certain articles, then the law shall be returned to the Mazhilis. At the same time, the Senate shall have the right to propose a new version of certain articles of the law to the Mazhilis.

In the event that the Senate has not adopted a relevant decision within sixty days, the law shall be submitted to the President for signing.

5. If the Mazhilis, by a majority vote of the total number of deputies, agrees with the wording of certain Articles of the law proposed by the Senate, the law shall be considered adopted by the Mazhilis in a new version and approved by the Senate and shall be submitted to the President for signing within ten days.

If the Mazhilis, by the same majority of votes, objects to the wording of certain articles of the law proposed by the Senate, and also if the Senate has not approved the law as a whole, disagreements between the Chambers shall be resolved through conciliation procedures.

The version of the law worked out by the conciliation commission shall be subject to consideration by the Majilis and the Senate in the manner prescribed by paragraph 4 of this article.

In cases when the Majilis, by a majority of votes from the total number of deputies of the Chamber, did not adopt the law in the wording proposed by the conciliation commission, the Majilis shall conduct a second vote on the law in the previously adopted version.

If, during the repeated voting, the Mazhilis confirms the earlier made decision by a two-thirds majority of the total number of deputies of the Chamber, the law shall be submitted to the President for signing within ten days.

If the law does not gain the indicated majority of votes of the deputies of the Majilis, the law is considered not adopted and is returned to the initiator.

5-1. excluded by the Law of the Republic of Kazakhstan dated 08.06.2022 (shall be enforced from 01.01.2023).

6. The draft laws that provide for the reduction of state revenues or increase in state expenditures may only be submitted when there is a positive resolution of the Government of the Republic of Kazakhstan. This resolution shall not be required with respect to the draft laws that are subject to consideration by the Mazhilis of the Parliament as part of the legislative initiative of the President of the Republic of Kazakhstan.

7. If the draft law submitted by the Government has not been adopted, the Prime- Minister shall have the right to raise an issue of confidence in the Government at a joint session of the Chambers. The voting on this issue shall be held no earlier than forty-eight hours from the moment of calling for a vote of confidence. If the call for a vote of confidence does not receive the majority vote of the total number of deputies of each Chambers, a draft law shall be deemed to be adopted without voting. However, the Government may not exercise this right more than twice a year.

2. The day of adoption of the Constitution at a republican referendum is declared a public holiday - the Day of the Constitution of the Republic of Kazakhstan.

Article 91

1. Amendments and additions to the Constitution of the Republic of Kazakhstan may be introduced by a republican referendum, held by decision of the President of the Republic, adopted by him on his own initiative or on the proposal of Parliament or the Government. The draft amendments and additions to the Constitution shall not be submitted to the republican referendum if the President decides to submit it to Parliament. The decision of Parliament shall be made in this case in the manner prescribed by the Constitution. If the President of the Republic rejects the proposal of Parliament to submit amendments and additions to the Constitution to the republican referendum, the Parliament has the right to adopt a law that makes these amendments and additions to the Constitution by a majority of at least four fifth votes of the total number of deputies of each Chamber of Parliament. In this case, the President of the Republic signs this law or submits it to the republican referendum, which is considered valid if more than half of the citizens of the Republic who have the right to participate in the republican referendum took part in the vote. Amendments and additions to the Constitution which are submitted to the republican referendum, are considered adopted if more than half of the citizens who took part in the voting voted for them in at least two thirds of regions, cities of republican significance and the capital.

2. The independence of the state, the unitarity and territorial integrity of the Republic, the form of its government, the fundamental principles of the activities of the Republic, established by the Constitution, the provisions that the President of the Republic is elected for a term of seven years and the same person may not be elected President of the Republic more than once, shall be unchanged.

3. Amendments and additions to the Constitution of the Republic shall be submitted to a republican referendum or to the consideration of the Parliament of the Republic if there is a conclusion of the Constitutional Court on their compliance with the requirements established by paragraph 2 of this article.
